.... ~~making differences~~ - life is difference - death is the same - in every moment of the status quo there is a series of repetitions of sameness - what is interesting is what is different - interest is measurable in units of attention through time - what gets attention is what has value - a revolutionary industrial system can be built on operations whose value are functions of what is different - a revolutionary philosophy can be built on the dialectic of difference and sameness and measurable in units of attention - a revolutionary art can be built on the continuous revolutionising of every pattern of sameness by making differences -
status quo there is
